The Bishop's Weekly Chat With You.

Budapest, Aug. 27, 1930

My Dear Flock:

The Hungary of today is much diminished in size and population as compared to the Hungary of centuries antedating the World War.

She was forced into the war much against her will, fought hard as a unit of the Central Powers, and at the end along with Austria received the severest treatment of all at the hands of those who completed the Versailles Treaty.

Her boundaries once extended far south into that is now Jugoslavia, north into what is now Czechoslovakia, and southeast into what is now under Roumanian territory. The old Hungary was completely surrounded by mountains, the present Hungary has no mountains. The boundary lines were drawn so close to some of her cities, that their merchants can no longer enjoy the patronage of people outside the city limits. Esterom in the north, the seat of the Primate of Hungary for 900 years, is almost at the edge of Czechoslovakia; and Szeged in the south is practically on the boundaries of both Jugoslavia and Roumania.

People from these latter countries will not be given passports to do business across the border; in fact one risks his life to step a yard beyond the country's new boundaries.

One wonders by what motive the post-war lords were guided in establishing boundary lines, because they are not rational either on the score of national groups, or natural divisions (such as rivers or mountains) or religious affiliation, or the preferences of the people. It would appear that vindictive punishment alone motivated the Trianon arbiters.

The consequence is mutual hatred as between the new nations, depression instead of happiness among the people, oppression instead of liberty, which, it was hoped, would be a blessing following what was represented as peace.

Boundaries were drawn through the center of farms, and even of homes, while the owners not only received no compensation, but may now not step foot into a part of their own property for its cultivation, for instance, without obtaining permission from the government, which is always granted subject to difficulties and restrictions.

Hungary would have an abundance of fruit and vegetables, eggs and poultry, and other commodities for exportation, but neighboring countries impose a tax so burdensome that it really has no export market.

The consequence is a declining business, unemployment, poverty, unrest, and a powerlessness to recover owing to a restricted army on the one hand, and the big stick wielded by the powerful allied powers, which gave Hungary the government and dwarfed state it has.

Sincerely,

+John Francis Noll

N.Y. Minister Praises Catholic Schools at Baptists' Convention

Syracuse, N. Y.—Dr. John F. Fraser, a Protestant minister of New York City, recently praised the Catholic system of parochial schools in the course of an address, "Faith on the Earth—Or Is the World Going Red," delivered before a ministers' conference at the annual meeting of the Baptist Missionary Convention here.

Dr. Fraser urged religious education in the public schools where, he said, the system of education is totally Godless and the seeds of anarchy are being planted, and lauded the Catholic school system which, he said, persists despite attempts by its foes to undermine it. The Catholic parochial school, he declared, has preserved the age-old teaching of Christianity, Dr. Fraser declared. He advocated the establishment of similar educational systems by other denominations.

Less Hours, More Pay Labor Need, N.C.C.M. Is Told

R. R. Union Statistician at Convention Says Machinery, Not Depression, Is Cause of Unemployment.

Kansas City, Mo.—Speaking at a recent morning session of the convention of the National Council of Catholic Men, here, L. E. Keller, of Detroit, statistician of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, cited railroad employment figures purporting to show that the five-day week, six-hour day and higher pay must be adopted by industry to solve the unemployment problem. An address on history and education was given at a luncheon meeting recently by William A. Luby, head of the department of mathematics at Junior College, a public educational institution.

"All Class 1 railroads in 1920," Mr. Keller said, "employed 2,022,832 men, with a total compensation of $3,681,303,000. In 1929 the same lines employed 1,662,463 men, whose compensation was $2,896,159,000. The decrease in number of men working was 360,369, and decrease in income was $785,642,000, or 17.8 per cent in men, 21.3 per cent in compensation."

"Machinery Displaces Men

"This is not a temporary condition that can be relieved by emergency charity work. The decrease in numbers of men employed has grown steadily in the past ten years. The more efficient operation and improved machinery are displacing more and more men. This is not a problem to be looked upon as caused by temporary hard times. The growing unemployment situation must be faced squarely for what it is, and it is my hope that when the Catholic Men's committee appointed to consider this problem takes up the matter, it will go into it honestly, accepting facts as they are."

Fort Wayne Rector Attends Last Rites

The Very Rev. Msgr. Charles H. Thiele, rector of St. Peter's church, Fort Wayne, was celebrant at the requiem high Mass Saturday morning at the funeral of Miss Mary Thiele, his niece, held from St. John's church, Goshen. The Rev. Harold Moran, pastor at Goshen, and the Rev. Arnold J. Wither of St. Peter's, Fort Wayne, assisted at the obsequies. Miss Thiele who was 25 years of age, succumbed October 22 after an extended period of ill health. Besides her mother she is survived by a brother and three sisters. Her father who preceded her in death was a brother of Msgr. Thiele.

On Sunday the Fort Wayne rector left for Milwaukee, Wis., where on Monday morning he attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Felden, held in St. Francis, Wis. Deceased was the mother of the Rev. Norbert Felden, a former assistant in St. Peter's parish, Fort Wayne. He is also a former pastor of Monroeville and Whiting, Ind. Owing to a paralytic stroke and impaired health he relinquished his pastoral duties and is residing in St. Francis, Wis.

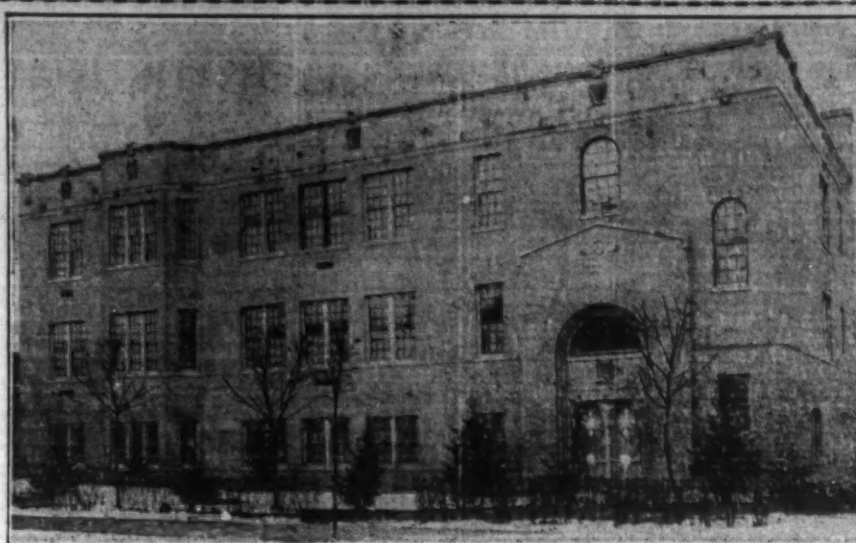

RADIO HOUR

Many thousands of Catholics listen every week to the Catholic Hour broadcast under the sponsorship of the National Council of Catholic Men. Only a few of them, apparently, realize that these programs cost heavily—about $700 a week.

The money with which the National Council of Catholic Men has thus far met this expense has come from a few hundred individuals and organizations. The perpetuation of the work will require additional resources. Walter T. Johnson, President, and other officials of the National Council of Catholic Men believe that the support of the Hour should represent, as far as possible, the whole Catholic laity, or at least that large number who have the benefit of it.

Contributions for the Catholic Hour may be sent to the National Council of Catholic Men, 1314 Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, D. C.

DEDICATE NEW $70,000 POLISH CHURCH AND SCHOOL

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH AND SCHOOL

Dedication of a $70,000 Church and School, Gary, Ind., by the Holy Family Catholic Parish took place Sunday, October 26th, 1930, with elaborate ceremonies. The Rev. Ignatius Gapszynski of Hammond, Indiana, and the Rev. Paul Roederer of Hobart, Indiana, served as deacon and sub-deacon of the Mass. The Rt. Rev. Bishop delivered an English sermon, and the Rev. Stanislaus Gruszka, C.S.C., of South Bend, Indiana, preached in Polish. Both preachers pointed out that it is particularly fitting that the Church be combined with the school, as a religious element in education is essential in the formation of character and good citizenship.

Hundreds of laity and the following clergy participated in the solemnities:

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Osadnik, the Rev. Stan. Lisewski C. S. C., the Rev. Leo Pisula, the Rev. Stan. Gruszka, C. S. C., the Rev. Thomas Jensen, the Rev. Joseph Ryder, the Rev. John Schaffer, the Rev. Jos. Bolka, the Rev. Joseph Zobel, the Rev. John Steger, the Rev. George Lauer, the Rev. Ladislau Szczukowski, the Rev. Dr. C. Gadacz, C. R., the Rev. Dr. Fabian Bednarski, the Rev. A. Andrew, O.F.M., the Rev. H. Conway, the Rev. John Wroblewski, the Rev. Joseph Judnic, the Rev. F. Liebert and the Rev. John A. Costello.

A banquet in the new auditorium followed the ceremonies, attended by 500 persons, committee and city officials among them. Thaddeus Monczynski presided as toastmaster. Mayor R. O. Johnson, the Rt. Rev. Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Osadnik and the pastor, the Rev. Michael C. Gadacz, were the speakers. The following program was given by the children of the Holy Family school:

Address of Welcome to the Rt. Rev. Bishop, Francis Wilczynski; Song of Triumph, St. Cecilia's Choir; Address of Gratitude to the Rev. Pastor, Alexander Bojarski; "Come Join the Song," St. Agnes' Choir (school children); "Grandma's Angel" (monologue); Camilla Felinski; Rose Drill, 2nd and 3rd grade girls; "La Grace" dance, 7th and 8th grade girls; "Our Little Contractors," 1st and 2nd grade boys.

Four years ago a handful of people of that faith gathered in a private home to hold the first services. Tribute was paid to the Rev. Michael C. Gadacz who has been the leader of the congregation since its organization.

Non-Catholics Place Priest in Control of Gill Hospital, Ohio

Steubenville, O.—The Rev. Thomas A. Powers, pastor of St. Peter's church here, has been given personal control of the Gill hospital, the oldest institution of its kind in this section. Father Powers will name his own trustees to whom the property will be deeded in a trust founded in 1901 by the late Hon. J. J. Gill, Congressman of the Eighteenth Congressional District of Ohio, and well known philanthropist. The institution has been in charge of the King's Daughters and the Gill Hospital Association. The hospital has been a success under the present management. It has a comfortable endowment and no debts.

The selection of Father Powers is considered a tribute to his fine character especially since the appointment was made by an entire non-Catholic board. The priest will place a community of Sisters in charge of the hospital.

Peter Collins, National K. of C. Speaker, Heard at St. Vincent's, Elkhart

The wonderful power of practical prayer, the willingness and the ability to explain to Protestants, without apology, the teachings of the Catholic Church and the weekly reception (daily, if possible) of Holy Communion, are the three requisites which form the basis of "Catholic Action," declared Peter W. Collins of Boston, Mass., prominent K. of C. speaker of national prominence, when he addressed an open meeting at St. Vincent's hall, Elkhart, Monday night.

Mr. Collins, who appeared here under the auspices of the local K. of C. Council, was introduced by Lawrence Tuttle, grand knight.

Priest's Ode in Latin Is Read as Colleges Honor Virgil in Calif.

San Francisco.—An ode in honor of Virgil, the Roman poet whose two thousandth natal anniversary was celebrated here in the Greek theater of the University of California last week, written by the Rev. Henry Woods, S.J., dean emeritus of the school of philosophy, University of Santa Clara, was read as part of the program. The poem was written entirely in Latin and in Virgil's hexameter beat, the only poem of the kind contributed by coast universities represented at the celebration.

Cardinal's Action Averts Bloodshed in Brazilian Coup

Sao Paulo, Brazil.—President Washington Luis of Brazil retired from the chief executive office of the country only after he had been advised by His Eminence, Cardinal Leme da Silva, Archbishop of Rio de Janeiro, through a Bishop, that the people were so aroused that the time would allow no vacillation, according to a story made public here. His Eminence was actuated in his intervention by a wish to prevent bloodshed and violent incidents which seemed imminent.

FR. JAS. M. GILLIS WILL GIVE SERIES ON "CATHOLIC HOUR"

Noted Editor Announced For Eight Radio Addresses Beginning Nov. 9—Bataeff to Be Heard as Soloist—"Hour" Wins in Newspaper's Poll.

Washington.—The Rev. James M. Gillis, C.S.P., of New York City, Editor of The Catholic World, will be the next speaker in the "Catholic Hour," which is sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Men and is broadcast over a network of the National Broadcasting Company from Station WEAF in New York.

It also is announced that Michael Bataeff, the distinguished Russian basso-profundo, has joined the Paulist Choristers and will be heard as a soloist in the "Catholic Hour" for the first time Sunday, November 2, when he will chant the hymn "Dies Irae" in Gregorian style. He will sing in the "Catholic Hour" at frequent intervals during the next two months.

Fr. Gillis Widely Known

Father Gillis is widely known, not only as an editor, but also as a lecturer and writer. He is the author of "False Prophets" and "The Catholic Church and the Home," both of which have been highly and generally praised by critics.

He is to deliver a series of eight addresses in the "Catholic Hour," his subjects being Conscience and the Commandments.

Among the many interesting reactions to the "Catholic Hour" brought to the attention of those in charge of its broadcast is the result of a poll recently conducted by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph among its readers. The paper sought to determine:

The most popular Pittsburgh radio announcer; the most popular Pittsburgh radio program; the most popular Pittsburgh station; the most popular network program; the most popular network artist; the most popular network announcer; the most popular outside station.

Catholic Hour Voted First

The "Catholic Hour" was voted the most popular network program, receiving a total of 4,992 votes to the 3,592 votes given to "Amos 'n' Andy," the next most popular. The Catholic Evidence Guild programs were a close third, receiving a total of 3,218 votes. Combined, the two Catholic programs received a total of 8,210 votes—more than double that of the next most popular program.

Incidentally, the poll revealed that among the paper's readers the Rev. Dr. Jerome D. Hannan, Secretary to the Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, Bishop of Pittsburgh, a lecturer in the Catholic Evidence Guild programs every other week, was the most popular network artist, receiving a total of 5,410 votes as compared with 4,004 votes given to Floyd Gibbons, who was second in popularity. The Rev. Dr. James R. Cox, Rector of Old St. Patrick's Church, Pittsburgh, who broadcasts daily and Sunday from his church, was voted the most popular local artist, polling 16,694 votes as compared with 6,817 accorded the winner of second place. The program coming from Old St. Patrick's was voted the most popular local broadcast, receiving a total of 14,133 votes as compared with 5,201 votes registered for the program ranking second.

Newman, Calif.—Working with their pastor, the Rev. Leonard J. Madock, the officers and members of Court Newman, Catholic Daughters of America, and Newman Council, Knights of Columbus, are engaged in providing both week-day and Sunday religious instructions for pupils attending public schools. Through the efforts of the two organizations attendance at the instructions has been increased by more than 100 per cent.

NEW PEORIA BISHOP DISCLOSES HORRORS OF SOVIET TYRANNY

Peoria, Ill.—A protracted and thorough case against the Communist regime in Soviet Russia was presented here at a banquet attended by 470 persons by the Rt. Rev. J. H. Schlarman, Bishop of Peoria, in an address that traced the many significant steps in contemporary Russian history, the great hardships suffered by the Russian people, and the domination of the whole country by a comparatively small minority exercising a tyranny and dictatorial influence unprecedented in the history of the nation even under the Czars.

The Bishop covered the events in Soviet Russia from the time the seeds of Marxian Communism first took root in that country and continued his sketch down to the present time, when, he points out, the Russian people are as oppressed and downtrodden as they were before the revolution.

Citing instances supported by authorities, the new prelate of Peoria asserted that the Soviet authorities are deceiving the world into a false conviction that Russian industry, harmony and progress are growing apace under the Communist regime.

Struck by the "orderly arrangement and lawyer-like presentation" of the Bishop's case against Soviet Russia, the Peoria Journal, large secular daily here, asserted editorially that the Bishop "combines force with erudition and practical sense with a high idealism."

"His first public address in Peoria was a promise as well as a fulfillment," the editorial declared. "It certified our most distinguished new-comer as a dynamic American as well as a prelate."

The paper also adds that in the minds of his listeners and many others here, the Bishop was considered "a worthy successor to the late Rt. Rev. Edmund M. Dunne and to the late Archbishop John Lancaster Spalding."

JUBILEE RECALLS GREAT GROWTH OF CHICAGO DIOCESE

Increase of 286 Churches, 5 Colleges, 47 Secondary Schools Part of See's Record Under Three Distinguished Prelates—Development of Catholic Charities, Educational Facilities, and Boy Scout Group Some Accomplishments of Card. Mundelein.

Chicago, Ill.—The commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Archdiocese of Chicago, which formally took place recently, recalled a history over a period of a half century that, overflowing with physical, apostolic and devotional accomplishments and endeavors, has resulted in this Catholic ecclesiastical province being numbered today as one of the world's most phenomenal sees.

The Diocese of Chicago was elevated to the rank of an Archdiocese in a papal decree dated September 10, 1880, and in the same decree the Rt. Rev. Patrick Augustine Feehan, Bishop of Nashville, was appointed the first Archbishop of the new Archdiocese.

When Archbishop Feehan came to Chicago he found approximately 104 churches, 34 of which were in the city itself. When he died the 34 Catholic churches in the city of Chicago had grown to 100 while the churches of the whole Archdiocese had increased to 298. The Archbishop himself laid the cornerstone of 80 churches and dedicated over 100, in addition to ordaining 250 priests and confirming about 200,000 persons.

Despite the reduction of the Archdiocesan area in 1908 by the creation of the Rockford Diocese there are today over 400 churches, almost 260 of which are in the city. In 1880, when

Holy Cross Brother Dies at Notre Dame

Funeral services for Brother Joseph, C. S. C., a member of the "Ave Maria" staff at Notre Dame, Indiana, were held last Friday morning with the Rev. William R. Connor, C.S.C., celebrant. Preceding the Mass office for the dead was chanted by the Moreau Seminary choir.

Brother Joseph who had been a member of the Holy Cross Congregation for 39 years was a native of Cape Royal, Newfoundland, where he was born in 1860. He received the holy habit on August 10, 1891, at Notre Dame making his religious profession on August 15, 1893.

Previous to his work in the university office and on the "Ave Maria" publication he was a member of St. Joseph's college faculty, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Brother George J. Feltes, S.J., (extreme left), who was designated by his superiors to qualify as pilot for the plane on missionary work in Alaska, was not a passenger when the plane crashed. Others appearing in this picture are aviation experts who assisted in the first flights of "The Marquette."

SCENE OF ROYAL WEDDING

The Basilica of St. Francis at Assisi, Italy, where the wedding of Princess Giovanna of Italy (inset left) and King Boris of Bulgaria (inset right) will take place on October 25th. The royal families of the two countries petitioned the Holy See for a dispensation from the impediment to the mixed marriage, and both parties to the marriage contract declared their willingness to have any children of the union, without exception, reared in the Catholic faith. The wedding ceremony, according to reports, will take place in the lower of the two Basilica churches, built one atop the other. The entrance to the lower church is seen in the center of this picture. The tomb of St. Francis of Assisi is in this church. The Holy See granted a dispensation to permit the wedding to take place in the Basilica.

Volcanoes in eruption do not terrorize Catholics on the Island of Flores in the Dutch East Indies. They have erected a mission at the base of Berg Geo, an active volcano.

ETHIOPIAN PRIESTS

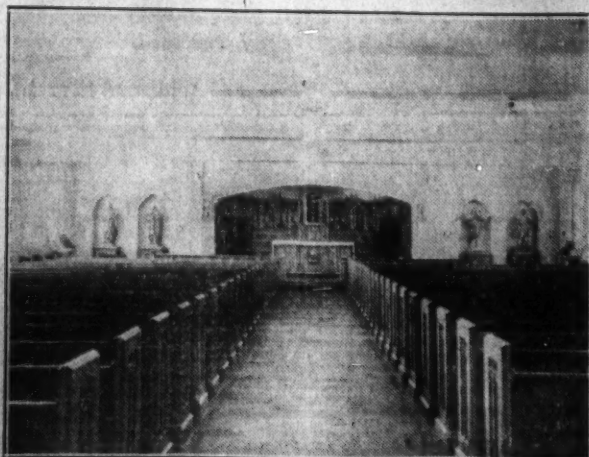

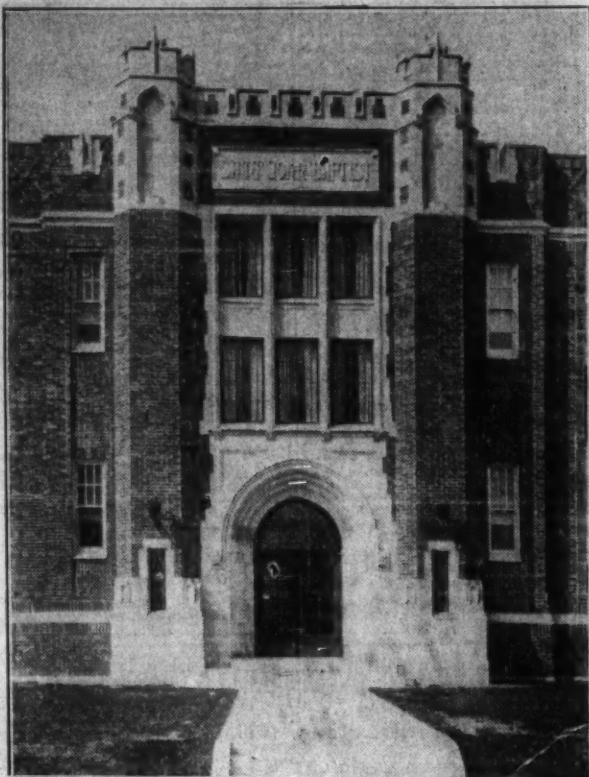

An interesting picture showing two Catholic priests of Ethiopia, Africa. The eyes of the world are upon this ancient, independent country for the crowning of the former Ras Tafari as Emperor, with the name of Haile-Sellassie I. Bishop Jarousseau, Apostolic Vicar in Abyssinia, has been charged to represent Pope Pius XI at the ceremonies.

Catholics PROMINENT IN THE OUTSTANDING HEADLINES OF THE DAY'S NEWS

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Savoldi. Savoldi. What manner of man is he? With his name in the headlines Sunday after Sunday, sports followers all over America ask the question. Full-back on Rockne's eleven, he is a big man physically and exceptionally fast. He is one of the most powerful men ever to have played football at Notre Dame. And he is speedy, too. He comes from Three Oaks, Michigan.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Factional freshmen at Georgetown University, donning the famous blue and gray skull-caps, turned to a youth among them and shouted: "The JIG is up." They did not have in mind what the old saying meant. They referred to little John Ignatius Griffin of Brooklyn, N. Y., who at thirteen is the youngest student ever to enroll at Georgetown. His initials are J. I. G. Hence, when "the JIG is up" there is usually something scintillating to be expected. For the first few days of classes the freshmen were inclined to look upon the lad as a mascot. When they saw and heard him at classes they changed their opinions.

CHEROKEE, Ia.—It is a long way from caissons, heavy artillery and trench-fighting to the pastoral existence of a country priest, but Father Ed. J. Smith, in charge of the little Catholic church here, has not forgotten the war. Neither have the men who knew him when he served as an army chaplain. Recently the delegates to the Iowa convention of the American Legion elected him their state chaplain, putting him in line, they hope, for the position of national chaplain at a few conventions hence.
